Hotels

Business or leisure, your guests will expect service excellence in all areas of your operation, whether it be conferencing & banqueting, restaurants & bars, guest rooms or leisure facilities. Your business is about front of house hospitality and back of house efficiency.

With our total hotel supply capability meeting the requirements of every department, it's no wonder Bunzl supply most major UK hotel chains, as well as many thousands of independents.

Leisure & Travel

Quality catering within both the leisure and travel sectors is now considered an integral part of the whole experience, even if dining is not the primary activity.

Whether it be the provision of fast food at a theme park or a corporate event at Ascot, public expectation is fuelled by the requirement for service to be rapid and yet uncompromising in quality.

Food on the move, or food to go, is never a more appropriate description than in the leisure sector where Bunzl have played a significant part in the development of a massively improved offering.

Restaurants

Current trends suggest that value for time, as well as money, are increasingly critical in judging the merits of the "food experience".

Global brand growth combined with the development of fusion cooking has removed the constraints of conventional dining, creating an educated consumer with even greater expectations.

Needing to refresh menus and concepts with increasing frequency, you can be confident that with the global expertise of Bunzl, you will be in touch with new products, innovation and food service trends.

Education & Healthcare

Bunzl has serviced the NHS in the United Kingdom for over thirty years, supplying into local Health Trusts and central NHS Logistics, utilising the experience gained from contract awards in both the public and private health sectors.

Bunzl also has extensive experience with many Local Authorities across the UK, supplying into schools and working with menu development teams to promote healthy eating and creating brands to support these concepts.

Catering

The greatest challenge to traditional catering has come from the rapid growth of the desktop dining culture, which continues to erode the traditional lunch hour. This has led to increased competition from "High Street" brands whose packaging often portrays a life style statement that is carried back into the workplace.

To combat this threat, we work with our clients to achieve premium in-house branding concepts, increasing customer capture rates and generating revenue growth.

Vending Supplies

As the total service provider to companies who conduct their "Own Facilities Management", the supply of beverages for the traditional pour & serve market is equally as important as the ingredients and maintenance products required for the self-owned vending machine.

Our supplier relationships within the beverage sector has ensured established relationships with vending operators. As the only national UK beverage wholesaler who is not linked to any specific manufacturing facility, we can offer the best product option in line with our customers' requirements.
